

New Jersey Nonprofits Should Stay Up to Date with State Charitable Filings

- Charities Registration: New Jersey nonprofits registered with the New Jersey Charitable Registration and Investigation Section should know that while there is no special COVID-19-related extension of time for nonprofits to file their annual registration renewal, the Section does provide a standard 180-day extension for nonprofits that bring in gross contributions of over $10,000 during a fiscal year and are currently up to date and compliant with their filings. Nonprofits must submit a request for a filing extension by the date that their registration renewal would otherwise have been due. Failure to do so could result in late fees. Nonprofits registered with the Section that bring in under $10,000 in gross contributions during a fiscal year are not eligible for an extension.

Eligible nonprofits must request the standard 180-day extension for filing their renewals online through the Charities Registration portal. For more information, visit the Section's website.

- Games of Chance: Due to the current COVID-19 crisis, the New Jersey Legalized Games of Chance Control Commission has announced accommodations for nonprofits registered with the Commission that are planning to run games of chance, including but not limited to raffles or bingo.

Nonprofits that need to file an amended license application for a postponed raffle or bingo event do not need to list a new date for the event at this time. There are no filing fees for license application amendments. If a nonprofit has to cancel an event, it will receive a credit for the license fee it paid. The Commission will also waive late fees for nonprofits that file late registration renewals with the Commission.
